Road closure on 1300 West from 5400 to 5550 South

Due to the heavy rains and flooding this summer, 1300 West will be closed, possibly until next spring. Taylorsville City engineers noticed movement on the canal bank and settlement within the roadway, which has caused concern for the safety of vehicles. The City is being very cautious due to the potential hazards created by the utilities in the roadway, including large gas and water lines. They are concerned that the vibrations of vehicles going over the roadway may cause additional movement and have closed the road.

Taylorsville engineers have had a geotechnical investigation done and are waiting for the results. Based on those results, they will be determining the best course of action to mitigate the issues. There is the potential that the road could be closed until next spring while they work through a solution for design and construction of the new roadway.
